Three upcoming regional forums will address critical sustainable development challenges that lie at the core of the United Nations post-2015 development agenda:

Stakeholder engagement is a fundamental requirement of sustainable development and in this regard, the United Nations Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific (ESCAP) and the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) are convening, in collaboration with the Asia-Pacific Forum on Women, Law and Development (APWLD) and other civil society organizations, the Asia-Pacific Civil Society Forum on Sustainable Development (Bangkok, 16-18 May 2015) as a preparatory event to these key forums.

Following on the progress of the region in bringing the concept of development justice¹ to global attention and the establishment of Asia-Pacific Regional CSO Engagement Mechanism (AP-RCEM)², the Asia Pacific Civil Society Forum on Sustainable Development will:

- Inform and build the capacity of civil society participants to engage in sustainable development processes at the global and regional levels

- Agree on joint actions and follow up to civil society positions adopted
- Strengthen the outreach and effectiveness of the AP-Regional CSO Engagement Mechanisms by facilitating dialogue and electing the first AP-RCEM committee
- Elect two alternate UNEP Asia Pacific CSO representatives

The Forum will also guide UNEP on regional implementation of the resolutions and decisions of the first session of the United Nations Environment Assembly (UNEA-1) and help identify the region’s inputs to the next UNEA and UNEP’s medium term strategy for 2018-2021. Environment Ministers, Environment Authorities, key intergovernmental organizations, United Nations organizations and UNEP’s strategic partners, and major group stakeholders are expected to attend the event.
